

Parallel Network Simulations

Canonical reasons: serial simulators lag behind Moore's law.

- big multihop networks, global Internet => scalability with # objects
- depth of modeling detail => scalability with complexity of objects
- multiple time scales => scalability as distinct events dominate

Interesting new reason: Slow convergence and transients